Sometimes I take home discarded Colonist files with the idea of clipping one or two things from them. The back seat of the car is as far as they get, for the time being.

Also in the back seat are tools, newspapers, toys, a pillow and (I suspect) forgotten odds and ends of groceries, which are beginning to give my car a rich, gamey smell inside.

Whenever I pick up a hitch-hiker, I apologize for the foul state of my car.

For politeness' sake, they should really say, "Oh, I don't know that your car is so dirty," or else, "Cars soon get that way, with all the things you have to carry," or else, "YOUR car is as clean as a whistle compared with mine."

But there are limits to politeness. When I apologize for the state of my car, hitch-hikers simply nod their heads and sit there with their mouths

Spur to B.C. Development

FAVORABLE settlement of Canadian-U.S. commercial negotiations con-cerning the use of Peace River natural gas throughout the Pacific Northwest, subject to approval by the U.S. federal power commission which is anticipated, is the most encouraging news British Columbia could have been given for the Christmas season. Since the new agreement signed between the participating corporations follows the initial direction of the U.S. power body final approval would seem to be largely a matter of form. The consequences for this province and for Canada generally could be tremendous; affecting as they do the two western provinces, the Lower Mainland region and a considerable part of the Northwest below the international border. It would be difficult to imagine any step of more immediate and crucial importance to British Columbia than a workable plan to pipe Peace River gas through the length of this province for the first use of our own industries. This seems to promise that, and formal apsubject to approval by the U.S. federal proval would at once touch off a surge of development in the whole region con-cerned. For B.C. there would be the immediate construction of the multi-million dollar transmission line, vital connection with a new and cheap source of energy for its chief industrial areas, and a demonstrated stride forward in the field of economic co-operation across the border to the mutual benefit of both lands.

B.C. would be sharing its gas in part for immediate marketing opportunity and the sales volume essential to make transmission economically feasible. mission economically feasible. Without such prospect the gas might stay in its domes in the Peace River for centuries, of small use to anyone. The announcement this week by Premier Bennett and Hon. Robert Sommers on behalf of the provincial government that full concurrence had been reached and that the development was going forward with the development was going forward with the approval of the province has been widely acclaimed. Interest will centre now on final action by the U.S. federal power commission which would give the goahead signal in the big undertaking.

For Safety with Firearms

THE first safety rule for those who handle firearms of any kind—including the far-from-harmless BB airgun—is never to point a weapon at anyone even though it is "known" to be empty. Too often the handler who "knows" that a gun is unloaded only believes that it is. "I didn't think it was loaded" is one of the commonest explanations of fatal and near-fatal accidents with firearms. Two 16-year-old boys—both of whom have had militia training and should have known better—broke the rule at the week end and as a result one of them lies in critical condition from a pistol-shot wound. In this case the accident apparently resulted from the mistaken belief that the safety rules with respect to lethal weapons. I HAVE been privileged to peruse an unusual book, received a few months ago by a Victoria lady from The Times of London, which undertook its printing and distribution it is entitled "Britam's Homage to 28,000 American
Dead" and it fells

American Union.

It will be the national tribute of the United Kingdom to the 28,000
Americans of all services who lost their lives while based in Britain during the war, and will be known as the American Memorial Chapel,

* * * In March, 1942, the first lighting units of the American forces arrived in Northern Ireland. By the time Operation Overlord was launched in June, 1944, there were more than a million Americans in Britain. This was the greatest foreign invasion that the inhabitants of Britain had ever experienced, and the greatest mass migration in the long story of movement which has made up the history of the United States. The New World was ferried back to the Old. In the defense of freedom America went back to its origins. The chapel now nearing completion had a dual birth. It was felt in had a dual birth. It was felt in Britain that a national tribute to commemorate the American sacrifice should be erected. Similarly in the United States there was a desire for a permanent memorial in London in honor of these 28,000 Americans. The two sentiments were combined. Britain deemed it imperative, however, that British funds alone should build the chapel, and a public subscription provided the money. American participation was harmonized by its preparation of the Roll of Honor, * * *

This Roll records all 28,000 names This Roll records all 25,000 names in a ricity illuminated manuscript of 473 pages, bound in red leather. In a page at the beginning General Fisenhower says: "Fach name inscribed in this book is a story of personal tragedy and a grieving family: a story repeated endlessly in white crosses girdling the globe."

Although the memorial change is

Although the memorial chapel is still a building the Roll was com-pleted in 1951-and it was dedicated at a ceremony held in St. Paul's on July 4 of that year and handed over to the Dean of the cathedral for safepany. For the time being the Roll of Honor is displayed in a glass case.

the names of the American dead will be recorded in the very heart of London in a spot more sanctified by its history and associations than any on which Britain's own dead are named. No tribute could be higher

The volume, "Britain's Homage to 28,000 American Dead." relates in detail the circumstances culminating in the memorial chapel, describes the wartime life and custom of the American serviceman in Britain, and contains messages from Sir Winston Churchill and General Eisenhower. A copy has been sent to the next-of-kin of each of the 28,000 whose sacrifice is commemorated.

The copy I have been absorbed in bears on the cover the gold-inscribed name of M. Sgl. S. R. Saunders, U.S.A.A.F., the Canadian-born son of Mrs. E. M. Saunders, 52 High Street, Strawberry Vale.

LITT'S HAVE A CHRISTMAS CONTEST, Victoria is about only place in Canada where there's a good chance of golf in reasonable comfort around the Christmas sea

The weather chances are about eight-to-one in favor of the city or the publicity bureau could put up a distinctive trophy, with numerous other prizes thrown in to match the Christmas season.

My idea of the trophy would be a model Christmas tree in metal on which each year another silver golf ball bearing the winner's name would be added—like the President's Putter played annually by the Oxford and Cambridge Golfing Society.

A trophy of this nature would be unique in golf, and I imagine that as it became known lots of golfers from other parts would want to take part.

I feel that if given the lead, the Victoria Golf Association would co-operate and that at least one of the local clubs would be willing to lend its course and facilities.

As for the players—what a wonderful way of working off that Christmas dinner.

Before dismissing the idea as stupid, just think Wanter.

at Christmas dinner.

Before dismissing the idea as stupid, just think. We stage juan De Fuca swimming contest in mid-summer that merely is the world what miserably cold sea water we have round reast. Nor is it any more out of season than our August riling bonspiel. Nor the Inner Harbor-Christmas Day swim. When you come to think of it, golf is one of Victoria's ime natural attractions. Yet except for the annual Empress urnament sponsored by the CPR, extremely, little is done by the tourist trade people or anyone else to encourage the golf-gholidaymaker to our shores.

A Christmas Tree contest would be a step in the right directions.

It is still not too late to get it going this year.

THE "OLD" FLEMING RETURNS. It would be very diffi

This one-under-par round which gave him the lowest three-round aggregate in the first winter medal series, was grace-uily put together and respiendent with fine, accurate shots. Since I saw him two weeks earlier, Fleming has reverted to his normal style. He has given up the open stance and the controlled fade. With his fine natural ability Fleming can get the extra distance as well as all the other advantages without adopting a swing that didn't sit nicely on his shoulders.

It seems winter regulations itemse you to do just preview what you like, unless an opponent objects.

I am glad to hear, by the way, that some of our largolfers are much more strict than the males on this matter winter rules. Good luck to them.

YOUTHFUL BUTTON SEEKER. I watched chunky 16-ye YOUTHFUL BUTTON SEEKER. I watched chunky 16-yearold Norman Boden playing a few shots in the City medal, and I hope to see more of him Sunday at Gorge Vale when he teams up with Bob Herbertson against Bob Morrison and Frank Scroggs in a city buttons challenge.
Boden has a nice grooved swing, and he looks an excellent putter. Last summer he made an impressive showing in the Pacific Northwest championship, and he is obviously one of Joe Pryke's up and coming Gorge Vale hopes.
On their own course Norm and Bob may give the seasoned button-holders a hard struggle.

utton-holders a hard struggle.

ANOTHER ACE FOR BILL LEACH. Bill Leach of Victoria colf Club scored his fourth hole-in-one Saturday when he oled out the 188-yard 13th hole with a No. 6 from.

He was playing with Arthur Musgrave, Ron Fort and Les leil, and it was with the same players that earlier this year bill Leach holed out in one at the same hole. Bill has also had ces at the seventh and 14th holes at the Victoria Golf Club.

MORE TURKEY WINNERS. Winners of the turkey com-betition at Victoria on Saturday were Lou Williams and Billi Pinfold. Both were previous winners. At Uplands the low net in the Saturday turkey shoot was Roy Stranix and the low gross winner was Frank Scroggs.

Sea Turtle Found At Alberni Inlet

PORT ALBERNI—A form of animal life rarely found so far north in the Pacific, a sea turtle, was picked up on the beach at Spring Cove by Tom Kimoto of the fishboat Le Perouse.

Mr. Kimoto planned to present the turtle to the Vancouver aquarium, but either from hunger or from the amount of fresh water mixed with salt water in Alberni Inlet, it died at the week end.

The turtle was approximately 18 inches long and a foot wide.
